

“Leading with Honor – Leadership Lessons from the Hanoi Hilton” – Lee Ellis (Col. Ret. USAF) – in November of 1967, as a cocky 24 year AF fighter pilot, Lee Ellis was shot down over N. Viet Nam on a bombing run and spent the next 5+ years in various POW camps, some of the time with John McCain as fellow prisoner. McCain writes the forward to this incredible book. Each chapter begins with a theme and a story about something which took place in one of the camps, but then it ‘morphs’ into a leadership lesson which could and should be applied in today’s business world. And if you think YOU are having a bad day, just start reading my summary at the beginning of Chapter 3. It will put YOUR bad day into the proper perspective.
